World Bank estimates India's GDP to plunge 9.6% in 2020-21

The World Bank has projected a 9.6 percent contraction for the Indian economy in FY 2020-2021, 6.4 percentage points lower than its previous forecast in June 2020.

In its latest January 2021 Global Economic Prospects report, the World Bank said the contraction in India's output reflects a sharp drop in household spending and private investment.

"In India, the pandemic hit the economy at a time when growth was already decelerating. The output is projected to fall by 9.6 percent in FY2020/21, reflecting a sharp drop in household spending and private investment," the report said.

The report notes that the pandemic disproportionately affected activity in the services sector in India, mainly in urban areas, such as retail). It also paralysed consumption, and caused significant unemployment. The informal sector, which accounts for four-fifths of employment, also suffered severe income losses, the World Bank said.

In India, growth is expected to recover to 5.4

percent in 2021, as the rebound from a low base is offset by muted private investment growth given financial sector weaknesses, the report said.

“The pandemic will likely lower potential growth, including through eroding human capital and investment growth. In the financial sector, nonperforming loans were already at high levels before the pandemic and the economic downturn may lead to further insolvencies among financial and non-financial corporations,” said World Bank in the outlook report.

India’s government debt is also expected to rise by 17 percentage points of GDP amid a severe output contraction of more than 9 percent, it found. India is also expected to post a current account surplus in FY2020/21, mainly driven by weak domestic demand.

According to the report, the global economic output is expected to expand 4 percent in 2021 but still remain more than 5 percent below its pre-pandemic trend.

Moreover, there is a material risk that setbacks in containing the pandemic or other adverse events derail the recovery. Growth in emerging market and developing economies (EMDEs) is envisioned to firm to 5 percent in 2021, but EMDE output is also expected to remain well below its pre-pandemic projection. Global growth is projected to moderate to 3.8 percent in 2022, weighed down by the pandemic’s lasting damage to potential growth, the World Bank said.

“The pandemic has exacerbated the risks associated with a decade-long wave of global debt accumulation. Debt levels have reached historic highs, making the global economy particularly vulnerable to financial market stress. The pandemic is likely to steepen the long-expected slowdown in potential growth over the next decade, undermining prospects for poverty reduction,” the World Bank said.

The heightened level of uncertainty around the global outlook highlights policymakers’ role in raising the likelihood of better growth outcomes while warding off worse ones. Limiting the spread of the virus, providing relief for vulnerable populations, and overcoming vaccine-related challenges are key immediate priorities, it said. With weak fiscal positions severely constraining government support measures in many countries, an emphasis on ambitious reforms is needed to rekindle robust, sustainable and equitable growth.

A downside scenario in which infections continue to rise and the rollout of a vaccine is delayed could limit the global expansion to 1.6 percent in 2021 and 2.5 percent in 2022, it said. According to the World Bank, in a more severe downside scenario including widespread financial stress, global growth could even be negative in 2021. However, in an upside scenario with successful pandemic control and a faster vaccination process, global growth could accelerate to nearly 5 percent in 2021, noted the World Bank.

Advanced economies are seen contracting by 5.4 percent in 2020, rebounding to 3.3 percent growth by 2021, and thereafter to 3.5 percent growth by 2022. Emerging market and developing economies (EMDEs) on the other hand, are expected to contract by 2.6 percent in 2020, grow by 4.6 percent in 2021-22 largely reflecting a rebound in Chinese growth.

The World Bank said that the impact of the pandemic on investment and human capital is expected to erode growth prospects in EMDEs, set back key development goals.

COVID-19 live updates: Total number of cases passes 101 million

The coronavirus outbreak began in Wuhan, China, in December 2019.

Known as SARS-CoV-2, the virus has resulted in more than 101 million infections and more than 2.1 million deaths.

SARS-CoV-2 infection causes a respiratory illness called COVID-19.

COVID-19 has now been reported on every continent.

01/29/2021 09:09 GMT — Novavax vaccine shows 89.3% efficacy

Novavax have announced that, according to an interim analysis of Phase 3 clinical trials, their vaccine candidate demonstrates 89.3% efficacy. The analysis included 62 cases of COVID-19, 56 of which occurred in the placebo group, and six in the vaccine group.

The SARS-CoV-2 variant first identified in South Africa was detected in two South Carolina residents. This is the first time it has been detected in the United States. The two residents were not connected and neither had recently traveled.

According to Dr. Krutika Kuppalli, an infectious diseases expert at the Medical University of South Carolina, in Charleston, this is particularly concerning because it means that the variant is “probably more widespread.”

antibody combo treatment reduces COVID-19 severity

A press release from Eli Lilly outlines encouraging findings from recent Phase 3 trials. They found that a combination of monoclonal antibodies bamlanivimab (LY-CoV555) and etesevimab (LY-CoV016) reduces the risk of COVID-19 hospitalization and death by 70%.

According to the press release, the study included data from 1,035 “high risk patients recently diagnosed with COVID-19.” Of those who received the monoclonal antibodies, 2.1% were hospitalized or died, compared with 7% of those who took the placebo.

In total, there were 10 deaths, all of which occurred in the placebo group. According to the press release, “These exciting results, which replicate positive Phase 2 data in a much larger set of patients, add valuable clinical evidence about the role neutralizing antibodies can play in fighting this pandemic.”

Prof. Stephen Evans, a professor of pharmacoepidemiology at London School of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine in the United Kingdom, who was not involved in the study, says:

“These results are very encouraging. They are the first antiviral drugs that demonstrably work in the first phase of the disease, just after the virus has infected someone but before it has had time to cause a lot of damage.”

However, Prof. Evans also outlines some limitations. For instance, he is concerned that the cost of the treatment may be quite high and that the drugs need to be given by infusion.

He also questions how much of an impact this type of therapy could have: “Identifying patients who test positive and are at high risk of hospitalization and death prior to their admission to hospital is not simple. It is not clear whether this could be many tens of thousands of patients or relatively few.”

01/25/2021 08:46 GMT — Diabetes treatment may protect against COVID-19 mortality

In a recent study, scientists found that people with diabetes undergoing treatment with the medication metformin have a significantly lower risk of death due to COVID-19 than those not taking the medication. The findings appear in the journal Frontiers in Endocrinology.

According to study lead Prof. Anath Shalev:

“Since similar results have now been obtained in different populations from around the world — including China, France, and a [UnitedHealth] analysis — this suggests that the observed reduction in mortality risk associated with metformin use in [people] with type 2 diabetes and COVID-19 might be generalizable.”

01/25/2021 08:38 GMT — COVID-19 vaccine rollout in Israel: Successes, lessons, and caveats

Many consider Israel a world leader in the race to roll out the COVID-19 vaccine. In a recent Special Feature, Medical News Today look at why the vaccine rollout has been so successful in Israel and discuss the controversies and equity issues related to the campaign.

India hopes economy plays like its cricket team

Calling the Covid-19 pandemic a “once in a century crisis”, the Economic Survey 2020-21 said the 7.5% decline in GDP growth rate in Q2 of the current fiscal means “the recovery has been a V-shaped one” — coming on the back of 23.9% decline in Q1.

Projecting a 7.7% contraction for the full fiscal year, the survey has copied the IMF projection of 11.5% GDP growth for the 2021-22 financial year. It’s hopeful of a “V-shaped performance”, much like the series victory by the Indian cricket team in Australia after losing the first match in which the Indians were bundled out for 36.

Nevertheless, it concedes that the economy will take two years to reach and go past the pre-pandemic level while justifying the lockdown measures that it says “restricted the Covid-19 spread by 37 lakh cases and saved more than 1 lakh lives”.

The survey also pointed out that India’s sovereign credit ratings achieved a new historic low when they were “rated as the lowest rung of the investment grade” for the first time in the country’s history, at BBB-/Baa3. Sovereign credit ratings categorise countries broadly as investment grade or speculative grade, depending on the probability of default on borrowings, with BBB- (by Fitch and S&P) or Baa3 (by Moody’s) being “the threshold of investment grade”.

Agriculture — whose practitioners, the farmers are at loggerheads with the Centre over the three new farm laws — is expected to be the saving grace, growing at 3.4% in both Q1 and Q2, cushioning the impact of the slowdown, as per the survey.

The survey also estimates India’s fiscal deficit to “overshoot” its target of 3.5%, due to the stimulus measures and the decline in revenues, with the new estimate now being 7.96%

Till then its bad news from past and present

The past: The Indian economy grew at a slower pace last year than projected earlier. The government on Friday revised downwards the economic growth rate for 2019-20 to 4% from 4.2% estimated earlier.

The present: The output of India's eight core sector industries — coal, crude oil, natural gas, refinery products, fertiliser, steel, cement and electricity — contracted by 1.3% in December. This is the tenth consecutive month of contraction.

The sign: The eight core industries account for 40.27% of the Index of Industrial Production that measures India's factory output and is an indicator of the level of industrial activity in the economy.

The hole: The Union government's fiscal deficit (the gap between its expenditure and revenue) soared to Rs 11.58 lakh crore, or 145.5% of the annual target, at the end of December. It had breached the target in July. The government's total receipts stood at Rs 11.21 lakh crore (or 50% of the annual target) while its total expenditure till December was Rs 22.80 crore (or 75% of the target).

The missed target: For this financial year, the government had pegged the fiscal deficit at Rs 7.96 lakh crore or 3.5% of the gross domestic product (GDP) in the Union Budget. However, these figures will have to be revised significantly. Fiscal deficit had soared to a seven-year high of 4.6% of the GDP in 2019-20.

Farm protest sites tense, support intense

Fresh clashes erupted at Delhi's Singhu border on Friday afternoon, when a group of people (numbering over 200 and claiming to be locals) arrived at the protest site with placards in hand. They claimed they were facing economic hardship because of the farmers' protest and demanding the farmers should leave the area. They also accused the farmers of insulting the national flag.

According to a farmer, they entered the site and damaged tents, langars and several other items. A pitched battle ensued with stone-pelting from both sides and injuries to many. These included the Alipur SHO who was badly wounded when a sword-wielding protester from among the farmers attacked him.

The police were then forced to fire around 15 tear gas shells and order a lathi charge. After a brief lull and then another round of stone-pelting by the locals, the police finally managed to send them away; 44 were arrested.

Meanwhile: The protest site at UP Gate has become the new rallying point for the farmer agitation that lay in tatters after the R-Day violence. Thousands of farmers from Western UP streamed into Ghazipur border to stand shoulder to shoulder with Bharatiya Kisan Union (BKU) leader Rakesh Tikait, whose defiance of the eviction order served on protesters and emotional pitch resonated far and wide.

From just 3,000 protesters overnight, the crowd had swelled to at least 25,000 on Friday morning at the sit-in site, with farmers from Baghpat, Shamli, Muzaffarnagar, bordering districts of Haryana and other parts of Western UP responded to the BKU's call to join protest in large numbers.

Finally: The Enforcement Directorate has begun a money laundering probe into the source of funds used for organising farmer protests for the last two months. Cases under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act will be registered once the preliminary investigation gets over, per sources.

Blast near Israel embassy in Delhi, cops probing terror angle

A low-intensity blast took place near the Israel embassy in New Delhi around 5:00 pm on Friday, coinciding with the anniversary of India and Israel establishing full diplomatic relations on January 29, 1992. No one was injured, but window panes of three cars were damaged.

With Israel embassy officials treating it as a suspected terror attack, Delhi Police decided to hand over the probe to its anti-terror unit. Mossad is assisting Indian agencies in the investigation. An FIR under Explosives Act has been registered.

An envelope with "Israeli ambassador" written on it was found at the spot. Though a forensic report is awaited on the kind of explosive used in the blast, an anti-terror squad officer told TOI that there were reasons to believe that ammonium nitrate was used. The CCTV footage around the spot and adjoining areas is being scanned. Immigration and airport officials were also alerted to keep an eye on all international passengers scheduled to fly out in the next 48 to 72 hours.

Preliminary investigations suggested that the bomb might have been wrapped in a plastic/polythene and thrown towards the footpath from a moving car, probably a bike. The bomb fell on the grass and exploded, leading to chaos and panic.

Cricket Australia confirms racial abuse, spectators cleared

Cricket Australia (CA) on Wednesday confirmed India's players were subjected to racial abuse during the third Test at the Sydney Cricket Ground. But unable to identify the culprits behind the taunts, it cleared the six spectators who were taken from their seats and questioned by police at the ground.

CA had launched an investigation with New South Wales Police after India fast bowlers Jasprit Bumrah and Mohammed Siraj complained of hearing racist slurs while fielding near the boundary rope. And the Indian team had refused to keep playing until action was taken over their complaints to umpires.

"CA's own investigation into the matter remains open, with CCTV footage, ticketing data and interviews with spectators still being analysed in an attempt to locate those responsible," CA integrity chief Sean Carroll said in a statement.

"CA's investigation concluded that the spectators filmed and/or photographed by media in the Brewongle Stand concourse at the conclusion of the 86th over on day four of the test did not engage in racist behaviour."

CA said it had submitted its report on the investigation to the ICC, adding that it was awaiting confirmation from police that they had completed their own investigation.

Also: BCCI president Sourav Ganguly was on Wednesday was hospitalised again with discomfort in the chest, less than a month after he underwent angioplasty. He will have a stenting procedure done today.

Shah sounds Bodo bugle ahead of Assam polls

While promising to make Assam "bullet-free, agitation-free and flood-free", Union home minister Amit Shah was confident that the BJP, with its allies, will form the next Assam government. (The state heads to polls this year.) He based his forecast on the Bodoland Territorial Council victory his party scored last December in alliance with the United People's Party Liberal.

Speaking at a rally in Kokrajhar on Sunday, on the occasion of the first anniversary of Bodoland Territorial Region Accord Day, he said the accord marked the beginning of the end of insurgency in Assam and that the political rights, culture and language of all communities were secure under the BJP government.

Signed on Jan. 27, 2020 between the central government, the Assam government and the Bodo stakeholders, it ended the decades-old violent demand for a separate Bodoland state and brought peace to areas dominated by Bodos, the largest tribe in Assam. "Efforts were made for the settlement for Bru-Reang issue and 700 members of eight armed groups laid down arms," added Shah.

He further announced that the government has sanctioned Rs 500 crore to build road network in Bodo region — a move that will take the area on the path of development.

At another rally in Nalbari, the home minister pointed out: "Can Congress and Badruddin Ajmal stop infiltrators in Assam? They will allow infiltrators because it's their vote bank. Only the Narendra Modi-led BJP government can free Assam from infiltrators."

However, like PM Modi, who had visited the state's Sivasagar district on Saturday, Shah also refrained from saying anything about the Citizenship Amendment Act.
